the editors introduce the core areas of current debate within historical theory bringing the reader as up to date with continuing debates and current developments as is possible this important handbook brings together in one volume discussions of the role of modernity empiricism realism post modernity and deconstruction in the historian s craft chapters are written by leading writers from around the world and cover a wide spread of historical sub disciplines such as social history intellectual history narrative gender memory psycho analysis and cultural studies taking in along the way the work of thinkers such as paul ricouer michel foucault and hayden white francis fukuyama claims that liberal democracy is the end of history this book provides a theoretical re examination of this claim through postmodernist ideas the book argues that postmodern ideas provide a valuable critique to fukuyama s thesis and poses the questions can we talk about a universal and teleological history a universal human nature or an autonomous individual it addresses whether postmodern theories concerning the movement of time what it means to be human and what it means to be an individual subject can be accommodated within a theory of a history that ends in liberal democracy the author argues that incorporating elements of postmodern thought into fukuyama s theory makes it possible to produce a stronger and more compelling account of the theory that liberal democracy is the end of history the result of this is to underpin fukuyama s theory with a more complex understanding of the movement of time the human and the individual and to show that postmodern concepts can paradoxically be used to strengthen fukuyama s theory that the end of history is liberal democracy the book will be of interest to students and scholars of political theory postmodernism and the work of francis fukuyama foucault s critical philosophy of history unfolding the present provides a comprehensive interpretation of foucault s work by focusing on its methodological procedural and epistemological elements adam takács argues that despite all its thematic and analytical diversity foucault s procedure can be understood within a unified framework based on the historical problematization of the present this procedure triggered by current social issues and aiming at a diagnostic screening of the present through a constructive exploration of the past thus sets in motion not only a specific philosophical vision of history and a research practice often related to the procedures of historiography but also new ways of critical analysis of social phenomena this book subjects all these elements to a systematic analysis demonstrating that within this framework foucault s often debated views on historical realism and constructivism his methodological choices and ontological commitments take on a coherent profile culminating in a timely social critical project of liberation of knowledge and political subjectivation
