the major problems of marriage and family life fall into five categories the legal the economic the biological the psychological the ethical or spiritual the problems however are seldom simple they are as a rule complex the distress is to a number of factors it is therefore necessary to examine every circle of life in which the cause or causes of distress may be discovered the circle of the individual the circle of the family the home the neighborhood the occupational life and the still larger circle economic and political segments the one thing we must remember is that the family must be studied in the light of its own origin and composition and evolution the changes that are taking place within the framework of the family in ~~the structure the organization the function the very foundations on which the~~ family rests the disruptions and the disintegration that is apparent in family life these conditions that lead to conflicts constitute a challenge to every student of marriage and the family the program that we outline and develop must be designed to meet the current and acute needs
