water is a vital resource and is widely acknowledged as such thus it often serves as an ideological and linguistic symbol that stands for and evokes concepts central within a community this volume explores thinking of water and concepts expressed through references to water within the symbolic system of the late persian early hellenistic period and as it does so it sheds light on the social mindscape of the early second temple community

i will tell you a story that will make you believe in god no story can guarantee being able to do this yet novelists can tell stories that make us think about what we believe about god and why despite repeated predictions of the death of the novel thousands of works of fiction are published and read in britain each year although western society is less religiously observant than it was many 21st century novelists persist in pursuing theological religious and spiritual themes make believe seeks to explain why with chapters offering analyses of novels from several genres so called literary fiction historical fiction science fiction fantasy and dystopia david dickinson discusses a wide spectrum of novelists authors who are avowedly atheistic and authors who have a vested interest in perpetuating biblical stories are both featured well known writers such as rushdie mcewan mccarthy and martell rub shoulders with some you may be meeting for the first time appealing to literature students and people who simply enjoy reading whether christian or not this study of god in novels invites us to open our minds and allow aspects of our culture to shape our understanding of god and to change our ways of talking about the divine
