henry ii is the most imposing figure among the medieval kings of england his fiefs domains extended from the atlantic to the mediterranean his court was frequented by the greatest thinkers of his time best known for his dramatic conflicts it was also a crucial period in the evolution of legal governmental institutions this book proposes a new reading of bergsonism based on the admission that time conceived as duration stretches instead of passes this swelling time is full and so excludes the negative yet swelling requires some resistance but such that it is more of a stimulant than a contrariety the notion of élan vital fulfills this requirement it states the immanence of life to matter thereby deriving the swelling from an internal effort and allowing its conceptualization as self overcoming with self overcoming as the inner dynamics of reality bergson dismisses all forms of dualism and reductionist monism because both the absence of negativity and the swelling nature of time posit a creative process yielding a qualitatively diverse world this graded oneness is how the lower level activates intensification by turning into limitation making possible higher levels of achievement in particular through the union of mind and body and the integration of openness and closed sociability
