this book draws on recent developments in research on ferdinand de saussure s general linguistics to challenge the structuralist doctrine associated with the posthumous course in general linguistics 1916 and to develop a new philosophical interpretation of saussure s conception of language based solely on authentic source materials this project follows two new editorial paradigms 1 a critical re examination of the 1916 course in light of the relevant sources and 2 a reclamation of the historically authentic materials from saussure s nachlass some of them recently discovered in stawarska s book this editorial paradigm shift serves to expose the difficulties surrounding the official saussurean doctrine with its sets of oppositional pairings the signifier and the signified la langue and la parole synchrony and diachrony the book therefore puts pressure not only on the validity of the posthumous editorial redaction of saussure s course in general linguistics in the course but also on its structuralist and post structuralist legacy within the works of levi strauss lacan and derrida its constructive contribution consists in reclaiming the writings from saussure s nachlass in the service of a linguistic phenomenology which intersects individual expression in the present with historically sedimented social conventions stawarska develops such a conception of language by engaging saussure s own reflections with relevant writings by hegel husserl roman jakobson and merleau ponty finally she enriches her philosophical critique with a detailed historical account of the material and institutional processes that led to the ghostwriting and legitimizing the course as official saussurean doctrine sound knowledge and the liminal explores liminality as a key feature of life in the anthropocene drawing on a 6 month research project conducted in m̧̧jro marshall islands it not only contextualises existing continental literature on liminality with a pacific centred perspective but also proposes that sound functions as a principal pathway for understanding wellbeing in one of micronesia s most resilient and vibrant urban centres locating everyday life in m̧̧jro as constantly shifting between the qualities of continental city and coral atoll the book traces how the local community uses sound to gain wellbeing in liminal spaces synthesising theories on anthropocene islands sound knowledge vibratory labour and the auditory bubble it highlights ludic appropriation and sonic cocoons as central to the affordances of an urbanised atoll space providing a thought provoking discussion of liminality outside of the context of continental cities this book will be a vital reading for anyone for studying the relationships between oceanic lives sound and liminality especially relevant for scholars it is also suitable for students and researchers in fields such as sound studies cultural studies political ecology and pacific studies the book of revelation can be read in various ways where interpretation opts not to venture beyond revelation or approach the book as a forecast of end time events it typically favours either going behind the text in search of a socio historical context of origin to which it might refer or else standing in front of the text and investigating the book s reception history or its present relevance and impact comparatively little interpretative work has been undertaken inside the text exploring the mechanics of how revelation works still less how its complex parts might fit together into a meaningful whole gordon campbell considers revelation to be a coherent narrative composition that draws its hearer or reader into its text world in reading revelation a thematic approach campbell gives an innovative account of revelation s sophisticated thematic content mindful of revelation s narrative verve or its architecture en mouvement as jacques ellul once put it campbell plots a series of thematic trajectories through the book on this reading parody and parallelism fundamentally shape the whole narrative as a first ever integrated account of revelation s macro themes reading revelation makes an important contribution to revelation scholarship in its light the book may justifiably be seen as the crowning achievement of the scriptures communication theory provides a theoretically informed exploration of diverse communication theories it serves as a meta discussion on the description and characterization of communication from various theoretical standpoints the book also examines how different theoretical perspectives approach communication and how these approaches can be both conflicting and complementary the book illustrates the concept of human communication by demonstrating that despite different theoretical lenses all human communication shares fundamental characteristics this underscores the importance of employing multiple perspectives to emphasize various aspects of communication in order to describe different facets of the communication process do revelation and reason contradict throughout the church s history christians have been tempted to make revelation and reason mutually exclusive but both are essential to a true understanding of the faith the inaugural theology connect conference held in sydney in july 2016 was dedicated to surveying the intersection of revelation and reason in revelation and reason in christian theology christopher c green and david i starling draw together the fruit of this conference to provoke sustained deep reflection on this relationship the essays filtered through epistemological biblical historical and dogmatic lenses critically and constructively contribute to this important and developing aspect of theology each essayist approaches revelation and reason according to the psalmist's words in your light we see light ps 36:9 the light of faith does not obscure truth rather it enables us to see truth

Henri Lefebvre is widely recognized as one of the most influential social theorists of the twentieth century. His writings on cities, everyday life, and the production of space have become hugely influential across cultural studies, sociology, geography, and architecture. Key writings present the full range of Lefebvre's thought in a single volume. The selection of essays spanning 1933 to 1990 reinforces the relevance of Lefebvre's work to current debates in social theory, politics, and philosophy. The book is divided into five sections: philosophy and Marxism, the critique of everyday life, the country and the city, history, time and space, and politics, and includes a general introduction by the editors as well as separate introductions to each section.
