this volume brings together the culmination of philological and linguistic work undertaken by a wide range of experts in the anatolian languages the research papers published here cover practically the entire linguistic and chronological spectrum of the anatolian group of indo european languages without neglecting important interactions with languages from other cultural environments among which the semitic group stands out the publication can therefore be regarded as a valuable contribution to anatolian and indo european studies reflecting the persistent and sustained efforts of a group of researchers with a broad array of interests some of whom have many years of research behind them and are well known in the field they have now been joined by new scholars who enable us to foresee a promising future for our disciplines

the intention of this book is to explain to a mathematician having no previous knowledge in this domain what noncommutative probability is so the first decision was not to concentrate on a special topic for different people the starting points of such a domain may be different in what concerns this question different variants are not discussed one such variant comes from quantum physics the motivations in this book are mainly mathematical more precisely they correspond to the desire of developing a probability theory in a new set up and obtaining results analogous to the classical ones for the newly defined mathematical objects also different mathematical foundations of this domain were proposed this book concentrates on one variant which may be described as von neumann algebras this is true also for the last chapter if one looks at its ultimate aim in the references there are some papers corresponding to other variants we mention gudder s p al 1978 segal i e 1965 also discusses basic ideas
