on Žižek's dialectics explores the theoretical and practical potential of the psychoanalytic method deployed by slavoj Žižek by investigating its epistemological implications within our contemporary capitalist universe the book begins by evaluating zizek's account of the capitalist ideology of enjoyment through the analysis of lacan's critique of marx's surplus value if the originality of Žižek's wager lies in the claim that enjoyment secretly sustains our ideological space can we think of surplus jouissance in a way that not only unmasks the ruse of capitalism but also adumbrates the construction of an alternative social space the answer to this question is developed in the second part of the book arguing that the transformative potential of zizek's epistemology needs to be fully unravelled if it is to avoid the risk of congealing into mere academic exercise fabio vighi attempts to politicise Žižek's groundbreaking critical method by calling upon the necessity to translate its emphasis on the indigestible surplus of knowledge into the drive to think the new under the current conditions this creative moment can no longer be delayed pantomime is a theatrical form that has come to rule our everyday lives as terror in the early years of the 21st century a dissembling political demonology has sometimes placed otherwise merely lyrical musicians in a volatile predicament the discussion here is of fun da mental s aki nawaz portrayed as a suicide rapper asian dub foundation striking poses from the street in support of youth in paris and algiers and m i a born free fighting immigration crackdown with atrocity video along the way bus bombs comedy circuits critical theory arabian nights bradley wiggins dinarzade karl marx paris boulevards molotov mao the eiffel tower reserve armies lists richard wagner samina malik slavoj zizek freudian slips red heads guantanamo the book offers some sharp critiques of our contemporary complacency and the failures of theory as more than ten years of war on terror turns anxiety at home and drone strike assassinations abroad into a normal everyday this pantomime is a terror story told over and over to distract from the workings of a despotic power the need for an adequate winning counter narrative was never more clear this book studies the role of rhetoric in the expansive movement for global higher education in u s colleges and universities drawing on an analysis of how discourses of security economy and ethics shape the rhetoric of global higher education as well as that of its populist and nationalist critics the author argues for an understanding of global higher education as a site of rhetorical conflict over visions of students as citizens in doing so the work advances the project of transnational rhetorical education a theoretical and pedagogical project that can foster forms of rhetorical inquiry performance and ethics that equip students to pursue transnational forms of civic engagement belonging and resistance this book will be of interest to scholars and students in the fields of rhetoric and composition studies communication and education as well as to faculty and administrators working in global higher education or internationalization programs

if the september 11 terror attacks opened up an era of crises and exceptions of which we are yet to see the end it is perhaps not surprising that care has emerged in the early twenty first century as a key political issue this book approaches contemporary narratives of care through the lens of a growing body of theoretical writings on biopolitics through close readings of j m coetzee s slow man kazuo ishiguro s never let me go paul auster s the book of illusions and tom mccarthy s remainder it seeks to reframe debates about realism in the novel ranging from ian watt to zadie smith as engagements with the novel s biopolitical origins its relation to pastoral care the camps and the welfare state within such today more mediated information is available to more people than at any other time in human history new and revitalized sense making strategies multiply in response to the challenges of cutting through the clutter of competing narratives and taming the avalanche of information data miners sentiment analysts and decision markets offer to help bodies of data speak for themselves making sense of their own patterns so we don't have to neuromarketers and body language experts promise to peer behind people's words to see what their brains are really thinking and feeling new forms of information processing promise to displace the need for expertise and even comprehension at least for those with access to the data infoglut explores the connections between these wide ranging sense making strategies for an era of information overload and big data and the new forms of control they enable andrejevic critiques the popular embrace of deconstructive debunkery calling into question the post truth post narrative and post comprehension politics it underwrites and tracing a way beyond them everyone agrees that theology has failed but the question of how to understand and respond to this failure is complex and contested against both the radical orthodox attempt to return to a time before the theology's failure and the deconstructive theological attempt to open theology up to the hope of a future beyond failure rose proposes an account of christian identity as constituted by not despite failure understanding failure as central to theology opens up new possibilities for confronting christianity's violent and kyriarchal history and abandoning the attempt to discover a pure christ outside of the grotesque materiality of the church the christian mystical tradition begins with dionysius the areopagite's uncomfortable but productive conjunction of christian theology and neoplatonism the tensions generated by this are central to dionysius's legacy visible not only in subsequent theological thought but also in much twentieth century continental philosophy as it seeks to disentangle itself from its christian ancestry a theology of failure shows how the work of slavoj Žižek represents an attempt to repeat the original move of christian mystical theology bringing together the themes of language desire and transcendence not with neoplatonism but with a materialist account of the world tracing these themes through the work of dionysius and derrida and through contemporary debates about the gift violence and revolution this book offers a critical theological engagement with Žižek's account of social and political transformation showing how Žižek's work makes possible a materialist reading of apophatic theology and christian identity in the last two decades especially we have witnessed the rise of celebrity forms of global humanitarianism and charity work spearheaded by entertainment stars billionaires and activist ngos e g bob geldof bono angelina jolie madonna bill gates george soros save darfur medeçins sans frontières this book examines this new phenomenon arguing that celebrity humanitarianism legitimates and indeed promotes neoliberal capitalism and global inequality drawing on slavoj iek s work the book argues how celebrity humanitarianism far from being altruistic is significantly contaminated and ideological it is most often self serving helping to promote institutional aggrandizement and the celebrity brand it advances consumerism and corporate capitalism and rationalizes the very global inequality it seeks to redress it is fundamentally depoliticizing despite its pretensions to activism and it contributes to a postdemocratic political landscape which appears outwardly open and consensual but is in fact managed by unaccountable elites slavoj Žižek is the most popular and discussed philosopher in the world today his prolific writings across philosophy psychoanalysis political and social theory film music and religion always engage and provoke the power of his ideas the breadth of his references his capacity for playfulness and confrontation his willingness to change his mind and his refusal fundamentally to alter his argument all have worked to build an extraordinary international readership as well as to elicit much critical reaction the Žižek dictionary brings together leading Žižek commentators from across the world to present a companion and guide to Žižekian thought each of the 60 short essays examines a key term and crucially explores its development across Žižek s work and how it fits in with other concepts and concerns the dictionary will prove invaluable both to readers coming to Žižek for the first time and to those already embarked on the Žižekian journey in recent years the borders of europe have been perceived as being besieged by a staggering refugee and migration crisis the contributors to the borders of europe see this crisis less as an incursion into europe by external conflicts than as the result of migrants exercising their freedom of movement addressing the new technologies and technical forms european states use to curb control and constrain what contributors to the volume call the autonomy of migration this book shows how the continent s amorphous borders present a premier site for the enactment and disputation of the very idea of europe they also outline how from istanbul to london sweden to mali and tunisia to latvia migrants are finding ways to subvert visa policies and asylum procedures while negotiating increasingly militarized and surveilled borders situating the migration crisis within a global frame and attending to migrant and refugee supporters as well as those who stoke nativist fears this timely volume demonstrates how the

the implications of these developments are also reflected in the challenge to the traditional hegemonic and rational understanding of subjectivity against the background of these great social changes several factors indicate that the forms of self regulation or self governance are also being transformed a one sided consideration of the homo economicus and its varieties would underestimate for example certain non rational forms of self perception and self reflection as well as non rational practices of self management and subjectivation
