this book historically maps and examines the evolving contemporary geostrategic and geopolitical imperatives of the united states within pakistan and the south asian region especially after september 11 2001 it offers a detailed and theoretical account of the rapidly changing context of us foreign policy towards pakistan after 2001 the history of the us pakistan relationship has been a complex and inscrutable mix of cooperation and conflict has turned even more challenging after 9 11 this book covers the latest developments and relevant themes from world politics as it discusses the impact of the unprecedented rise in religious extremism in pakistan stemming from the us war on terror as well as pakistan s economic vulnerability and military dictatorship india s offer to support the us in its war in afghanistan pakistan s nuclear capability and the us administration s decision to end financial aid to pakistan the study highlights the fact that from the receding of british influence in the region through the cold war and post cold war phases to the post 9 11 period us south asia policy has been informed by the theoretical paradigm of the grand strategy of primacy this topical book will be useful to scholars and researchers of international relations politics political studies strategic and defence studies security and peace studies foreign policy area studies and south asian studies it will also interest diplomats politicians policymakers security experts journalists and think tanks interested in india pakistan and the united states on issues of international politics world affairs and terrorism although access to financing in pakistan is expanding quickly it is two to four times lower than regional benchmarks half of pakistani adults mostly women do not engage with the financial system at all and only 14 percent have access to formal services credit for small and medium size enterprises is rationed by the financial system the formal microfinance sector reaches less than 2 percent of the poor as opposed to more than 25 percent in neighboring countries yet it is the micro and small businesses along with remittances that help families escape the poverty trap and participate in the economy bringing finance to pakistan s poor is based on a pioneering and comprehensive survey and dataset that measures the access to financial products by pakistani households the survey included 10 305 households in all areas of the country excluding the tribal regions the accompanying cd contains summary statistics the authors develop a picture of access to and usage of financial services across the country and across different population groups and they identify policy and regulatory priorities reform measures in pakistan have been timely but alone are not enough financial institutions have lagged behind in adopting technology segmenting customer bases diversifying products and simplifying processes and procedures gender bias and low levels of financial literacy remain barriers as is geographical remoteness however the single strongest cause of low financial access is lack of income not location education or even gender bringing finance to pakistan s poor will be of great interest to readers working in the areas of business and finance economic policy gender and rural development and microfinance naveed ahmed examines the impact of structural reform strategies of international financial institutions ifis on the rule of law good governance and development in pakistan the world bank the imf and other international financial institutions have a mixed track record of success in pakistan this book seeks to understand why this is the book explores how these institutions have been hindered in achieving social justice as a result of being caught between weak local governance structures and the competing interests of other powers including europe and the usa ahmed goes on to demonstrate how the ethos and instruments of rule of law and good governance can help counter the internal factors that have aggravated conditions of poverty and social injustice in pakistan all political decision making processes reflect the interaction of different utility maximising actors politicians voters bureaucrats and interest groups theoretical literature on the subject is not conclusive and thus far little empirical work exists this study presents an econometric analysis of the allocation of development aid to pakistan based on a political economic framework of aid allocation looking at bi and multilateral aid to pakistan from 1960 to 2002 results suggest that aid flows to pakistan are highly motivated by special interests within donor countries and international financial institutions ifis looking more specifically at bilateral aid and especially aid by the single largest donor to pakistan i e the us analysis suggests that pakistan and indian ethnic lobbies could play a role in aid flows and in the passage of two important amendments the pressler and brown amendments in us aid authorisation bills regarding aid to pakistan analysis of multilateral financial flows to pakistan shows that pakistan receives a large amount of lending but with considerable variations over time to some extent personal contacts of pakistani international civil servants appear to play a role in multilateral lending to pakistan along with major shareholders economic interests
