tears triumphs an autobiography i hope that you glean some comfort and direction from my memoir for me this has been a long walk to happiness and a peace in the autumn of my life from my stammering to losing my daughter when it seemed like the bottom of my life had fallen in i thanked god that did not happen i like what robert h schuller an american conference speaker once said tough times never last but tough people do never give up in tears triumphs i recount many times when i did feel like giving up i kept going i failed many times but got on my feet again in light of the devastating circumstances of the death of my youngest daughter annabelle i hope that health professionals will also listen more carefully and react more quickly and more professionally lastly we need to do our best to rule our minds i come from an aerospace background and so aerodynamics was one of my subjects according to the laws of aerodynamics the bumblebee s body is too large for its wings therefore it cannot fly fortunately the bee does not know the laws of aerodynamics so it goes ahead and flies for over 2000 years it was believed that it was a physical impossibility for a man to run a mile in 4 minutes roger bannister in 1954 shattered that myth and very shortly after that the record was broken again i used to ask myself what caused this change the conclusion i have arrived at is that people began to believe that it was possible to run a mile in under 4 minutes i hope and trust that you also will triumph over those tears and trials and reach your summit with success the author will make a donation from the proceeds of each sale to the brain tumour charity in the uk
