how should christians speak of the transcendent yet personal god when our language for persons is almost always gendered is male imagery such as father son or king the only appropriate way are there ways to talk of god using female gendered metaphors and pronouns and how does the use of such language impact humans as gendered people moving beyond the extremes in this debate the father and the feminine seeks to clarify the ways christians speak about god whether this is by recognizing revelation and christian tradition upholding god s ineffability using analogies metaphors and narratives referring to god as father son and spirit or by seeking a liberating way of life in community spencer miles boersma argues that male language for god need not be problematic if used and understood correctly but at the same time that it cannot be the exclusive way christians speak of the divine the grammar of christian scripture and tradition both authorize the use of female language which christians ought to use in pursuing a deeper relationship with god and others as well as a more authentic view of self

the mass of paul vi is so deeply flawed that it cannot be repaired from within whether by copious helpings of smells and bells by arbitrary attempts at traditionalizing or by an official reform of the reform and the roman mass inherited from the age of faith did not and does not need to be reformed along antiquarian or pastoral utilitarian lines as it fulfills the highest act of religion in a fitting manner perfected over many centuries of prayerful practice the liturgical revolution driven by ideology culminated in balkanization banality and boredom its fabrications must be retired from use and the traditional rite must be restored to its rightful place of honor in the church of the latin rite such are the bold claims defended in close the workshop why the old mass isn't broken and the new mass can't be fixed in which peter kwasniewski refutes the reformers own case for reforming the old rite and illustrates the subtle dangers to which clergy and laity are exposed by attempts at doing the new rite reverently simultaneously he reminds traditionalists that they should aspire to the noblest possible celebration of the mass always faithfully observing the rubrics and resisting bad habits that interfere with the rite's full splendor and efficacy unseemly haste minimalism ineptitude and the itch for pastoral experimentation if the catholic church in the west is ever to recover her internal soundness and external cultural influence her shepherds and her flocks must let the ill advised council of the 1960s and the bauhaus liturgy cobbled together in its name lapse into obsolescence so that the perennially fresh theology of the council of trent and the immortally beautiful liturgy of the roman church may once again flourish unfettered
