examines the educational progress challenges that racial ethnic minorities face in the u s this report shows that over time larger numbers of minorities have completed high school continued their education in college despite these gains progress has varied differences persist among hispanic black american indian alaska native asian native hawaiian or other pacific islander white students on key indicators of educational performance extensive charts tables

this book addresses many of the key problems facing contemporary societies the social significance attached to various forms of difference most notably race and ethnicity has been seen as resulting in the exclusion of some groups from their full rights as citizens this in turn is viewed as presenting a series of barriers to the creation of more inclusive societies because malaysia and singapore share a common colonial migration and political history the racial ethnic composition of the two societies are unsurprisingly similar however since 1965 state nation formation has taken separate trajectories and this has had a differential impact on the processes of racialization and ethnicization in the two countries the contributions in this volume examine how various groups namely the chinese malays tamils eurasian and orang asli have accomodated or resisted the dominant influence of the state in incorporating and subordinating them students and scholars of race and ethnicity will be interested in this work as it is the first attempt to bring together the work of several writers in documenting the consequences of state policies on ethnic formation in the region and raises theoretical issues relevant to this

what is the speci city of contemporary racism and what happens to questions of race in a context where multiculturalism is taken for granted few authors address these kinds of questions with subtlety for the most part questions of racism are treated either as self evident or alternatively as self evidenced the rst approach accentuated in everyday life and played out in media exposés is the tendency to treat racism as manifestly self evident we just know what racism is in principle and we just know what it looks like when we see it in practice dualistic assumptions dominate this sense of identity relations persons are racist or they are not an act is racist or it is not however despite the obviousness of racism in contexts where different people have different seating arrangements on a bus or somebody says i am better than you because your skin colour is different this approach barely comes to terms with the depth of embodied politics and the elusiveness of structures of racism in the contemporary world broad ranging and comprehensive this incisive new textbook examines the shifting meanings of race and ethnicity and collates the essential concepts in one indispensable companion volume from marxist views to post colonialism this book investigates the attendant debates issues and analyses within the context of global change using international case studies from australia malaysia the caribbean mexico and the uk and examples of popular imagery that help to explain the more difficult elements of theory this key text focuses on everyday life issues such as ethnic conflicts and polarized states racism s and policies of multiculturalism diasporas asylum seekers and refugees mixed race and hybrid identity incorporating summaries questions illustrations exercises and a glossary of terms this student friendly text also puts forward suggestions for further project work broad in scope interactive and accessible this book is a key resource for undergraduate and postgraduate level students of race and ethnicity across the social sciences an international and comparative analysis of social division rooted in race ethnicity and national identity it provides an overview of the key issues underlying ethnic conflict which has now risen to the top of the international political agenda this new edition of a widely respected textbook examines welfare policy and racism in a broad framework that marries theory evidence history and contemporary debate fully updated it contains a new foreword by professor kate pickett acclaimed co author of the spirit level two new chapters on disability and chronic illness and uk education policy respectively updated examples and data reflecting changes in black and minority ethnic demographics in the uk a post script from a minority student on her struggle to make a new home in britain suitable for undergraduate and postgraduate courses in social policy sociology and applied social sciences its global themes of immigration austerity and securitisation also make it of considerable interest to policy and welfare practitioners the goal of eliminating disparities in health care in the united states remains elusive even as quality improves on specific measures disparities often persist addressing these disparities must begin with the fundamental step of bringing the nature of the disparities and the groups at risk for those disparities to light by collecting health care quality information stratified by race ethnicity and language data then attention can be focused on where interventions might be best applied and on planning and evaluating those efforts to inform the development of policy and the application of resources a lack of standardization of categories for race ethnicity and language data has been suggested as one obstacle to achieving more widespread collection and utilization of these data race ethnicity and language data identifies current models for collecting and coding race ethnicity and language data reviews challenges involved in obtaining these data and makes recommendations for a nationally standardized approach for use in health care quality improvement in the 21st century new ethnic groups are forming faster than ever before and the role of race and ethnicity studies has evolved in response to this from policy issues around housing and crime through to debates about asylum and media representations sociologists must encounter and explore a vast range of issues in this ever changing field this book gives an overview of the most important topics that affect the making of race and ethnic relations in contemporary societies it goes beyond general definitions to explain exactly how and what these issues and debates can tell us about modern society using research and statistics to shed light on the most cutting edge issues the book takes each major topic in turn and helps readers to think through race and ethnicity on the basis of the most recent thinking in the field each chapter explains a range of theoretical and conceptual perspectives whilst approaching complex ideas in an accessible and insightful way written and edited by recognized experts in the field race and ethnicity in the 21st century will be an essential point of reference for researchers and practitioners and key reading for all students of race and ethnicity what do we mean in the u s today when we use the terms race and ethnicity what do we mean and what do we understand when we use the five standard race ethnic categories white black asian native american and hispanic most federal and state data collection agencies use these terms without explicit attention and thereby create categories of american ethnicity for political purposes davora yanow argues that race and ethnicity are socially constructed concepts not objective scientifically grounded variables and do not accurately represent the real world she joins the growing critique of the unreflective use of race and ethnicity in american policymaking through an exploration of how these terms are used in everyday practices her book is filled with current examples and analyses from a wealth of social institutions health care education criminal justice and government at all levels the questions she raises for society and public policy are endless yanow maintains that these issues must be addressed explicitly publicly and nationally if we are to make our policy and administrative institutions operate more effectively to help the u s department of defense dod estimate the percentage of service members who experienced racial or ethnic harassment or discrimination in the past year and corporation researchers with feedback from external experts and dod representatives developed a survey instrument the authors of this report describe the instrument development process the instrument itself and recommendations to support its use drawing upon ethnographic research the author uses detailed case study examples to show how race and ethnicity is produced negotiated and resisted in qualitative research encounters mervyn alleyne s work examines how the meanings and values of race and ethnicity have been constructed historically and how they are represented symbolically with particular focus on the caribbean alleyne examines the historical development of these categories in europe asia and africa and proceeds to an analysis of the caribbean through this analysis alleyne draws on a wide array of evidence to ultimately oppose the widely held notion that racial antagonism against black people is the consequence of new world slavery in the period following the discovery of the americas in the late fifteenth century a broad examination of the rise of nationalism populism xenophobia and racism throughout the world the wiley blackwell companion to race ethnicity and nationalism provides expert insight into the complex interconnected factors that are influencing patterns of human relations worldwide in a time of rising populist nationalism intensified racial and religious tensions and mounting hostilities towards immigrants and minorities analyzing the underlying forces which continue to drive global trends this volume examines contemporary patterns based on the most recent evidence spanning five continents offering a diversity of interpretations models and perspectives that address the challenges facing the study of race ethnicity and nationalism the companion features original contributions by both established experts and emerging scholars that explore an expansive range of theoretical historical and empirical case studies organized into five sections the text first discusses growing trends in the united states the significance of populism in major societies around the globe and how global changes are influencing regional variations in race ethnicity and nationalism an investigation of global migration patterns is followed by examination of conflict and violence from urban riots and boundary disputes to warfare and genocide the final section focuses on the policy debates resulting from changing patterns and their impact on politics the economy and society timely and highly relevant this book discusses contemporary issues such as the failure of school systems to provide equal opportunities to minorities the evolution of the school to prison pipeline
