providing chronologies of important events historical narratives from the first settlement to the present and biographies of major figures this work offers readers an unseen look at the history of racism from the perspective of individual states from the initial impact of European settlement on indigenous populations to the racial divides caused by immigration and police shootings in the 21st century each American state has imposed some form of racial restriction on its residents the United States proclaims a belief in freedom and justice for all but members of various minority racial groups have often faced a different reality as seen in such examples as the forcible dispossession of indigenous peoples during the Trail of Tears Jim Crow laws crushing discrimination of blacks and the manifest unfairness of the Chinese Exclusion Act including the District of Columbia the 51 entries in these two volumes cover the state specific histories of all of the major minority and immigrant groups in the United States including African Americans Hispanics Asian Americans and Native Americans every state has had a unique experience in attempting to build a community comprising multiple racial groups and the chronologies narratives and biographies that compose the entries in this collection explore the consequences of racism from states perspectives revealing distinct new insights into their respective racial histories drawing on his widely read Huffington Post columns rated one of the top educational blogs in the United States Alan Singer introduces readers to contemporary issues in education in the United States the issues are presented with a point of view and an edge intended to promote widespread classroom debate and discussion each section opens with a new topical summary essay followed by a series of brief essays updated and adapted from Huffington Post columns the book includes guest contributions guiding questions and responses to essays by teacher education students and teachers to further classroom discussion Education Flashpoints is written in a conversational style that draws readers into a series of debates by presenting issues in a clear and concise manner but also with a touch of irony and a bit of rhetorical bite the topics examined in these essays read like the latest newspaper headlines in the battle to define public education in the United States developed to meet the needs of modern United States history courses this text includes a review unit bridging early American history content before studying modern times in an age of unprecedented corporate and political control over life inside of educational institutions this book provides a needed intervention to investigate how the economic and political elite use traditional artifacts in K 12 schools to perpetuate their interests at the expense of minoritized social groups the contributors provide a comprehensive examination of how textbooks the most dominant cultural force in which corporations and political leaders impact the schooling curricula shape students thoughts and behavior perpetuate power in dominant groups and trivialize social groups who are oppressed on the structural axes of race class gender sexuality and disability several contributors also generate critical insight in how power shapes the production of textbooks and evaluate whether textbooks still perpetuate dominant Western narratives that normalize and privilege patriotism militarism consumerism white supremacy heterosexism rugged individualism technology and a positivistic conception of the world finally the book highlights several textbooks that challenge readers to rethink their stereotypical views of the other to reflect upon the constitutive forces causing oppression in schools and in the wider society and to reflect upon how to challenge corporate and political dominance over knowledge production
