what are friends for is the sequel to bogie's rules the story follows zachariah t bogan an itinerant surf lifeguard who wanders from beach job to beach job in the late 1940s and 50s although a fictional character bogie represents the real men who worked east coast beaches in the summer and southern beaches in the winter in the good old days bogie finds himself in florida working for the ft lauderdale beach patrol during the winter season his personal philosophy of life involves him in an adventure he would never have believed possible bogie meets and falls for a beautiful smart and wealthy businesswoman from washington d c when she disappears bogie enlists his brother and his friends who all have military experience and are trained in subversive combat tactics the clues lead the group to beaches that span south florida to a remote island in the south atlantic and surprisingly into the world of russian human trafficking the group faces continual danger only to find that all the loyalty and training in the world couldn t prepare them for the book s stunning conclusion contagion is a crucial term in the theory of networks that is nowadays employed to study increasingly diverse issues such as financial crises epidemics and fake news it provides a unifying framework to describe various social and economic phenomena that occur within different networks involving various forms of contagion this book discusses contagion over social and economic networks and its consequences for modern societies it starts with an accessible but solid introduction to basic concepts of the theory of networks with intuitive explanations and examples both of networks that shape our daily lives and of how researchers analyze them it then focuses specifically on contagion and on its importance for societies three crucial examples are analyzed more in depth epidemiological contagion fake news and financial crises the conclusions show how various societal problems each consequence of some form of contagion call for similar policy measures a pre emptive and comprehensive effort in collecting the required information and a shift in the concept of individual responsibility itself this is a book for any reader who is interested in how contagion and networks shape modern society our world can be a bewildering place the sense of awe and wonder at the states of affairs in which we find ourselves immersed give rise to philosophical questions philosophical reflection is a critical attempt to come to grips with our place in the world and the various problems we encounter in respect to the complexities encountered in everyday life in the most basic terms phenomenology is the study of the structures and relations of phenomena phenomenology begins from a descriptive analysis of our experiences of the world it grants precedent to the first person perspective how phenomena appear to consciousness there are any number of problems related to the plenitude of kinds of experiences which confront us through the course of our lives in addition to the structure of consciousness itself this volume presents a variety of views on a number of the phenomena of our everyday lives offering positions on such things from the nature of consciousness to the structures of religious or political experiences its appeal however should not be limited to philosophers alone given that all persons can relate to the subject matter of the essays for instance one author asks what is friendship the present work may also be understood as a gesture toward bridging the division between the valuable insights of continental and analytic philosophical traditions the authors include a combination of established academics such as jeffrey wattles the best selling author of the golden rule and young scholars from varied philosophical backgrounds this collection is divided into four sections i foundational elements of experience ii the experiencing subject what is it to be a subject iii amongst others the social world and iv social objects and institutions each section represents a level of experience from the most basic structures of experience to the subject s experience of the world and objects in it to experiences and interactions with others ending at the results of the codifications of certain social practices and beliefs the sections treat their respective topics principally even if they share material with other essays our experiences of the life world the world of human praxis contain a multiplicity of elements the divisions of this work are meant to demarcate various types of phenomena not to offer any definitive thesis regarding a hierarchy or structure of relations
