paul the apostle is usually imagined as a man of prestige and power comfortably conversing with philosophers seeking an audience with the emperor and composing compelling letters for christians throughout the mediterranean yet this portrait of a safe and conventional figure at the origins of christianity airbrushes out many strange things about him this volume repositions paul as a man at the periphery of power recovering an undomesticated apostle explores the ways that paul has been domesticated in both popular and scholarly imagination by isolating selected crises of the apostle s life and legacy and examining the social and material dimensions of his world these essays collectively chip away at the received image of his strength and status the result is a series of glimpses of paul that frame the apostle as surprisingly marginal and weak within roman society published in honour of new testament scholar leif e vaage recovering an undomesticated apostle presents paul as a man operating from a position of desperation making virtue out of necessity as he attempted to claw his way up in the dog eat dog world of the ancient mediterranean in cistercian architecture and medieval society maximilian sternberg offers an account of the social functions of the built environment in medieval monasticism few medieval monuments hold so privileged a place in the modern imagination as cistercian abbeys yet sternberg suggests it is precisely our own peculiarly modern fascination with the idea of cistercian aesthetics that has hindered a full view of the complex social meanings of their architecture this book draws attention instead to the practical and symbolic means by which architecture helped the cistercians to negotiate the dense web of relations that in actuality bound them to other spheres of medieval society it explores the permeability of monastic boundaries and considers their effectiveness in reconciling a simultaneous need for interaction and distance between monastic communities and these other social spheres
