this interdisciplinary volume presents a nuanced critique of the prison experience in diverse detention facilities across africa the book stresses the contingent porous nature of african prisons across both time and space it draws on original long term ethnographic research undertaken in both francophone and anglophone settings which are grouped in four parts the first part examines how the prison has imprinted itself on wider political and social imaginaries and in turn how structures of imprisonment carry the imprint of political action of various times the second part stresses how particular forms of ordering emerge in african prisons it is held that while these often involve coercion and neglect they are better understood as the product of on going negotiations and the search for meaning and value on the part of a multitude of actors the third part is concerned with how prison life percolates beyond its physical perimeters into its urban and rural surroundings and vice versa it deals with the popular and contested nature of what prisons are about and what they do especially in regard to bringing about moral subjects the fourth and final part of the book examines how efforts of reforming and resisting the prison take shape at the intersection of globally circulating models of good governance and levels of self organisation by prisoners the book will be an essential reference for students academics and policy makers in law criminology sociology and politics corporeal practices brings together a collection of essays on the body in french studies the thematic approach typical of la nouvelle critique is well represented as are psychoanalytic genetic feminist and queer readings demonstrating how the subject of the body can fruitfully serve a number of critical perspectives certain papers engage in a derridean challenge to the traditional categories of literature theory and science by showing that the body by its very nature post modern denies attempts at classification and control the book falls into three sections dissecting the body sexing the body and inscribing the body spanning three centuries and involving such varied media as the cartoon the novel the poem the portrait and the reference book thereby providing a stimulating and innovative reference point for students and lecturers alike during 2004 the human rights of ordinary men women and children were disregarded or grossly abused in every corner of the globe economic interests political hypocrisy and socially orchestrated discrimination continued to fan the flames of conflict around the world the war on terror appeared more effective in eroding international human rights principles than in countering international terrorism the millions of women who suffered gender based violence in the home in the community or in war zones were largely ignored the economic social and cultural rights of marginalized communities were almost entirely neglected
