in the late 1930s a number of american women especially those allied with various peace and isolationist groups protested against the nation s entry into world war ii while their story is fairly well known margaret paton walsh reveals a far less familiar story of women who fervently felt that american intervention was absolutely necessary paton walsh recounts how the united states became involved in the war but does so through the eyes of american women who faced it as a necessary evil covering the period between 1935 and 1941 she examines how these women functioned as political actors even though they were excluded from positions of power through activism in women s organizations informal women s networks and even male dominated lobbying groups in the great debate over whether america should enter the war some women favored aid to the allies not because they hoped for war but because they hoped aid would forestall more direct u s involvement but also because they believed war was preferable to a nazi victory paton walsh shows that this activism involved some of the most prominent women of their day elizabeth cutter morrow whose son in law charles lindbergh was an isolationist spokesman supported the revision of the neutrality acts to allow the sale of arms to the allies and expressed her support in a national radio broadcast soon other women joined this debate esther brunauer of the aauw journalist dorothy thompson and organizations like the league of women voters and national women s trade union league broke from the pacifist tradition to advocate american aid for the allied cause focusing on the conflict in europe paton walsh shows how these women grasped the implications of the lend lease program for america s entry into the war but supported it nevertheless by late 1941 the women s division of the fight for freedom committee had been established no longer merely advocating aid to britain to keep american boys out of battle this organization supported direct american involvement in the war as a means of stopping nazi oppression while most historians have focused on women s pacifism paton walsh connects women more directly to world events and shows how those interventionists reformulated maternalist ideas to justify and explain their beliefs our war too is a story of american women trying to reconcile the irreconcilable to preserve both their principles and their peace it expands our understanding of women as political actors and thinkers about foreign policy as it sheds new light on american public opinion over the build up to the war eugene windchy lays bare the tricks errors and secret plans that have led the american people into avoidable wars in order to prevent wars in the future we need to know how they have come about in the past a harsh light is thrown on our wars with muslim nations did a policy coup in washington demand regime changes in seven countries as alleged by retired four star general wesley clark our greatest national catastrophe was the civil war which began with southerners firing on fort sumter in charleston s c why did the southerners reject an opportunity to take the fort peacefully we learn who opened fire and why america s entering world war i saved the allies from defeat why in 1936 did winston churchill say the americans ought to have stayed home and minded their own business did germany start world war i triggering the war according to our textbooks was a young bosnian serb gavrilo princip who shot austria s archduke ferdinand was he a lone wolf he was not at trial sixteen men were convicted of participating in the crime they were part of an international conspiracy that did not include germany the wars of america is a dramatic and compelling narrative history by an outstanding military historian of america s armed conflicts and the political cultural and economic factors behind them since the earliest explorers and settlers arrived on this continent first published in 1968 it was revised and updated in 1981 to include the vietnam war it has now been updated to include all the events of the last ten years in lebanon grenada panama and the victory over iraq in the persian gulf by united nations forces under the command of general norman schwarzkopf a final chapter analyzes the self destruction of the european communist world in the summer and fall of 1991 including the collapse of the hard line soviet government and the upheavals in yugoslavia and speculates on the meaning of these developments on america s future leckie not only stresses those personal aspects of war that make it the most intense and contradictory of our experiences in the new chapters he shows how while operating in a quintessentially american tradition our military and political leaders applied the tragic lessons learned in the war in southeast asia against north vietnam by changing from a conscripted to a volunteer army thus leading the way to better training methods higher morale and far better performance on the battlefield combining dramatic narrative with sound reference material the wars of america is essential for anyone who wishes to understand america at war
