this book tackles the question of why the united states is so resistant to radical change towards economic justice and peace taking full stock of the despair that launched the popular support for bernie sanders and donald trump swanger historicizes the political paralysis of post 1974 united states that deepened already severe economic inequalities asking how the terrain for social movements in the early twenty first century us differs from that of the 1960s this terrain is marked by the entrenchment of neoliberalism anti intellectualism and difficulties paradoxically posed by the ease of social media activists now must contend with a paralyzing post factual moment alain badiou s thought informs this book on breaking through contemporary political paralysis enchanted calvinism's surprising central proposition is that ghanaian presbyterian communities have become more enchanted i.e. attuned to spiritual explanations of and remedies for suffering as they have become more integrated into capitalist modes of production. enchanted calvinism's central proposition is that ghanaian presbyterian communities both past and present have become more enchanted, more attuned to spiritual explanations of and remedies for suffering as they have become integrated into capitalist modes of production. the author draws on a weberian concept of religious enchantment to analyze the phenomena of spiritual affliction and spiritual healing within the presbyterian church of ghana, particularly under the conditions of labor migration: first in the early twentieth century during the cocoa boom in ghana, and second at the turn of the twenty-first century in their migration from ghana to north america. relying on extensive archival research, oral interviews, and participant observation conducted in north america, europe, and west africa, this study demonstrates that the more these ghanaian calvinists became dependent on capitalist modes of production, the more enchanted their lives, and subsequently their church, became. although in different ways within these two migrations, one striking pattern that has emerged among ghanaian presbyterian labor migrants in north america, for example, is a radical shift in gendered healing practices where women have become prominent healers while a significant number of men have become spirit possessed. adam mohr is senior writing fellow in anthropology in the critical writing program at the university of pennsylvania.

this book examines the operation of the united nations security council (unsc) to better understand the motivating factors that underpin its activation of article 39, arguing that climate change should be considered a threat to international peace and security. the theory of securitisation is employed to dissect the unsc and identify the power dynamics that dictate when and why article 39 is activated, exploring how contemporary threats to peace and security can unite the agenda of the unsc and shedding light on the narratives used to reach consensus. the author considers how this knowledge might be purposed to support the transition of climate change into the realm of article 39, how necessary and useful a unsc resolution would be is given thought, and a possible pathway to achieving it is outlined. aimed at academics and institutions that commentate on the unsc climate change securitisation theory, and undergraduate and postgraduate students of law, international relations, un law, and those undertaking environmental studies, this book will also be of interest to practitioners and diplomats in and outside of the un and anyone seeking to further the climate security nexus
