here elkins argues that alchemists and painters have similar relationships to the substances they work with both try to transform the substance while seeking to transform their own experience in this intimate history james elkins demonstrates that there is and can never be only one story of art he opens up the questions that traditional art history usually avoids in his latest book james elkins offers a road map through the field of visual studies describing its major concerns and its principal theoretical sources then with the skill and insight that have marked his successful books on art and visibility elkins takes the reader down a side road where visual studies can become a more interesting place why look only at the same handful of theorists why exclude from one's field of vision non western art or the wealth of scientific images perspective has been a divided subject orphaned among various disciplines from philosophy to gardening in the first book to bring together recent thinking on perspective from such fields as art history literary theory aesthetics psychology and the history of mathematics james elkins leads us to a new understanding of how we talk about pictures elkins provides an abundantly illustrated history of the theory and practice of perspective looking at key texts from the renaissance to the present he traces a fundamental historical change that took place in the way in which perspective was conceptualized first a technique for constructing pictures it slowly became a metaphor for subjectivity that gradual transformation he observes has led to the rifts that today separate those who understand perspective as a historical or formal property of pictures from those who see it as a linguistic cognitive or epistemological metaphor elkins considers how the principal concepts of perspective have been rewritten in work by erwin panofsky hubert damisch martin jay paul ricoeur jacques lacan maurice merleau ponty and e h gombrich the poetics of perspective illustrates that perspective is an unusual kind of subject it exists as a coherent idea but no one discipline offers an adequate exposition of it rather than presenting perspective as a resonant metaphor for subjectivity a painter's tool without meaning a disused historical practice or a model for vision and representation elkins proposes a comprehensive revaluation the perspective he describes is at once a series of specific pictorial decisions and a powerful figure for our knowledge of the world in the domain of visual images those of fine art form a tiny minority this original and brilliant book calls upon art historians to look beyond their traditional subjects painting drawing photography and printmaking to the vast array of nonart images including those from science technology commerce medicine music and archaeology such images james elkins asserts can be as rich and expressive as any canonical painting using scores of illustrations as examples he proposes a radically new way of thinking about visual analysis one that relies on an object's own internal sense of organization elkins begins by demonstrating the arbitrariness of current criteria used by art historians for selecting images for study he urges scholars to adopt instead the far broader criteria of the young field of image studies after analyzing the philosophic underpinnings of this interdisciplinary field he surveys the entire range of images from calligraphy to mathematical graphs and abstract painting throughout elkins blends philosophic analysis with historical detail to produce a startling new sense of such basic terms as pictures writing and notation in what photography is james elkins examines the strange and alluring power of photography in the same provocative and evocative manner as he explored oil painting in his best selling what painting is in the course of an extended imaginary dialogue with roland barthes's camera lucida elkins argues that photography is also about meaninglessness its apparently endless capacity to show us things that we do not want or need to see and also about pain because extremely powerful images can sear permanently into our consciousness extensively illustrated with a surprising range of images the book demonstrates that what makes photography uniquely powerful is its ability to express the difficulty physical psychological emotional and aesthetic of the act of seeing unlike many books on painting that usually talk about art or painters james elkins compelling and original work focuses on alchemy for like the alchemist the painter seeks to transform and be transformed by the medium in what painting is james elkins communicates the experience of painting beyond the traditional vocabulary of art history alchemy provides a magical language to explore what it is a painter really does in her or his studio the smells the mess the struggle to control the uncontrollable the special knowledge only painters hold of how colours will mix and how they will look written from the perspective of a painter turned art historian what painting is is like nothing you have ever read about art examines art historical writing as an expressive medium capable of emotion and reflection and therefore deserving of serious consideration for its own sake as the testament of art history and of individual historians the christian tradition provides a wealth of insight into perennial human questions about the shape of the good life human happiness virtue justice wealth and poverty spiritual growth and much else besides and christian scholars can do great good by bringing that rich tradition into conversation with the broader culture but what is the nature and purpose of distinctively christian scholarship and what does that imply for the life and calling of the christian scholar what is it about christian scholarship that makes it christian ten eminent scholars grapple with such questions in this volume they offer deep and thought provoking discussions of the habits and commitments of the christian scholar the methodology and pedagogy of christian scholarship the role of the holy spirit in education christian approaches to art and literature and more contributors jonathan a anderson dariusz m brycko natasha duquette m elizabeth lewis hall george hunsinger paul k moser alvin plantinga craig j slane nicholas wolterstorff amos yong a thoughtful study on how our eyes function with our brains examines the irrational elements of physical sight and concludes that human seeing transforms both the viewer and the object being viewed 15 000 first printing this is the third volume in the art seminar james elkin s series of conversations on art and visual studies is art history global stages an international conversation among art historians and critics on the subject of the practice and responsibility of global thinking within the discipline participants range from keith moxey of columbia university to cao yiqiang ding ning cuautemoc medina oliver debroise renato gonzalez mello and other scholars billy creelman the teenager in this story grew up in the 1930 s in the midst of the great depression and between two world wars a turbulent and frightening time banks factories and stores went out of business hundreds of thousands of formerly proud workers stood for hours in food lines and on street corners in all kinds of weather selling apples and pencils or holding out tin cups for change brother can you spare a dime after the bank foreclosed on his parent s tiny dairy farm in harford county maryland the family was forced to split up with his faithful companion and best friend spike a border collie at his side billy began hitchhiking to bethlehem pennsylvania where he planned to live with his uncle dan a war hero with a mysterious past during their journey billy and spike met some bad people and some good people they suffered a violent separation but after life threatening experiences were finally reunited under harrowing circumstances on his journey billy saw firsthand some of the destructive effects of the world war and the depression on the lives of americans and for the first time looked fear in the face and learned more than he could have imagined about violence and poverty

he also addresses the phenomenon of art critiques as a microcosm for teaching art as a whole and dissects real life critiques highlighting presuppositions and dynamics that make them confusing and suggesting ways to make them more helpful elkins s no nonsense approach clears away the assumptions about art instruction that are not borne out by classroom practice for example he notes that despite much talk about instilling visual acuity and teaching technique in practice neither teachers nor students behave as if those were their principal goals he addresses the absurdity of pretending that sexual issues are absent from life drawing classes and questions the practice of holding up great masters and masterpieces as models for students capable of producing only mediocre art he also discusses types of art including art that takes time to complete and art that isn't serious that cannot be learned in studio art classes an unknown masterpiece of visionary art as daring as blake or goya but utterly different reproduced in full color with a commentary by one of our most original art historians somewhere in europe we don't know where around 1700 an artist is staring at something on the floor next to her worktable it's just a log from the woodpile stood on end the soft damp bark the gently raised growth rings the dark radial cracks nothing could be more ordinary but as the artist looks and looks colors begin to appear shapes even figures she turns to a sheet of paper and begins to paint today this anonymous artist's masterpiece is preserved in the university of glasgow library it is a manuscript in a plain brown binding whose entire contents beyond a cryptic title page are fifty two small round watercolor paintings based on the visions she saw in the ends of firewood logs this book reproduces the entire sequence of paintings in full color together with a meditative commentary by the art historian james elkins sometimes he writes we can glimpse the artist's sources baroque religious art genre painting mythology alchemical manuscripts emblem books optical effects but always she distorts her images mixes them together leaves them incomplete always she rejects familiar stories and clear cut meanings in this daring refusal to make sense elkins sees an uncannily modern attitude of doubt and skepticism he draws a portrait of the artist as an irremediably lonely amazingly independent soul inhabiting a distinct historical moment between the faded renaissance and the overconfident enlightenment what heaven looks like is a rare event an encounter between a truly perceptive historian of images and a master conjurer of them
