This collection of essays from the most prominent scholars in the field of curriculum studies paints an intellectually rich palette of the present state of curriculum research across the countries and continents when the traditionally prevailed national imaginaries give increasingly way to transnational, international and postnational impulses. The main parameters of education, subjectivity and its belonging is shifting by employing the contradictory and broader issues around the question of nation and nation state as well as around its traditional educational counterpart, the psychologized individual, both radically reinterpreted by post and rereadings of old educational and social canons. International conversations on curriculum identifies the present transformations at work nationwide, worldwide, between and beyond by focusing on these shifts from a variety of methodological, theoretical, national, political and pedagogic concerns. It will open new and one could argue compelling vistas for reconsidering the social and political mission and moral purpose of education, policies of curriculum theory and practice in the increasingly but unevenly connected world characterized by economic volatility, unfair trade, ethnic and religious conflicts and growing social instability and collective existential insecurity. As such, the essays are a vital international testimony to the scholarly vibrancy and to the global awareness of the current intellectualized field of curriculum studies to alertly recognize and register the cultural, educational and political urgencies of our times.

Despite sharing many successes at promoting international collaboration, enabling effective responses to politically powerful states, increasing awareness of formerly invisible violations of the human rights of women and gaining ground in many countries, and in international law, women's human rights activists have many differences among them in resources, location, issue focus and strategies. It is appropriate to pay attention to these differences, particularly as they create challenges to the movement for women's rights. However, we argue that the women's human rights discourse as developed and deployed by women's human rights activists can be a resource for addressing these challenges internal to the movement while facing current challenges from outside the movement, attentive to the politics of defining a movement and its spokespeople. The article includes an extensive methodological discussion. We arrive at our conclusions after observing a broad range of women's activism and interpreting the reflections of a wide range of activists taken together they offer a view of human rights as indivisible and of the rights of all humans as interrelated this view is useful for self reflection within women s movements and for the ability of participants of various women s movements to use the women s human rights framework for meeting contemporary challenges abstract

this book explores the multiplicity of women s experiences in the cambodian genocide during the four year rule of the khmer rouge the dominant discourses of genocide often speak from a patriarchal and national perspective rendering women speechless and yet in this volume the female survivors of the cambodian genocide testify not only to the specific atrocities committed during the war but also to the pre war conditions that laid the groundwork for a gender specific victimization of women and its continuation post war with the help of testimonies from khmer women who joined the khmer rouge women who experienced sexual violence during the khmer rouge era women who fled the country and the cham women who faced expulsion from home this book explores the diversity of women s experiences under the khmer rouge survivors accounts show that a khmer woman s experience with the khmer rouge was considerably different from the experience of not only a khmer man but also a woman from a religious or ethnic minority group or a woman who chose to join the khmer rouge these differences are conveniently ignored in nationalist discourses in cambodia and by western scholars of history and gender based violence and they are given even less consideration in discourses about women survivors in diaspora instead of forcing generalization and universalization of gendered crimes of war gender and genocide in cambodia employs feminist curiosity and closely examines women s experiences under the khmer rouge from multiple vantage points this volume is essential reading for students and scholars interested in gender and cultural studies political history and modern history
