this is the story of popski's famous fighting unit in the words of his second in command captain bob yunnie mc aka park yunnie became the first recruit to the special unit founded in Cairo by Major Vladimir Peniakoff. Popski as Eighth Army advances towards Tripoli, PPA sets out in jeeps across the desert to mount raids behind the Mareth line. Yunnie relives the ensuing action at Gafsa and Kasserine and vividly depicts the sorties which took the men straight across the German line of command as Tunisia falls to the Allies on 7 May 1943. PPA trains for raids on the Italian mainland; they are dropped by RAF gliders in central Italy where they set about blowing up strategic targets while waiting for the Allied landings. Yunnie is given his own patrol and in the narrative that follows colourful characters flit in and out of the front line action in the mountains of southern Italy. Yunnie's account is an honest, extremely personal expose of the thrills and occasional pitfalls of life with Popski and his men. He captures the tumultuous nature of fighting in a nomadic unit that drifted between British and American command but whose contribution to the Allied war effort in North Africa and Italy remains immeasurable.

America's semi-centennial look at the liberation of Fortress Europe. Artillery troops constituting fewer than 10% of US forces inflicted most German casualties in their sector. The European theatre of operations is viewed by the artillery battalion which was attached to eight divisions whose terrain varied from the left flank to the right flank of US forces. In this wartime experiment the men were sent directly to their wartime assignments from the reception center. The combat performance of this battalion became a testing ground for the necessity of a boot camp liberating enslaved people for 268 continuous days had a remarkable effect on the soldiers. One anecdote is from an artillery observer who was with the troops that liberated Dachau. The Millen Castle affair on the Dutch-German border terminated the careers of 35 senior German officers. The close range direct fire artillery duel at Nuremberg evidenced US military excellence. Numerous first person anecdotes. Input from more than 100 veterans are included. US European homefront reactions to developments are cited. To Order Bull Run of Vermont. 7 Deborah South Burlington VT 05403 7816 21 plus 3 p h

The German Wehrmacht was one of the most capable fighting forces the world has ever known but in the end it was no match for the Allies. Some historians contend that the Allies achieved victory through brute force and material superiority but as Peter Mansoor argues all of the material produced by US industry was useless without trained soldiers to operate it, a coherent doctrine for its use and leaders who could
