this examination of the heroic journey in world mythology casts the protagonist as a personification of nature a botanical hero one might say who begins the quest in a metaphorical seed like state then sprouts into a period of verdant strength but the hero must face a mythic underworld where he or she contends with mortality and sacrifice embracing death as a part of life for centuries humans have sought superiority over nature

yet the botanical hero finds nothing is lost by recognizing that one is merely a part of nature instead a cyclical promise of continuous life is realized in which no element fully disappears and the hero's message is not to dwell on death

Publisher description

Myths and Fairy Tales in Contemporary Women's Fiction explores contemporary feminist postmodernist and postcolonial women writers use and revisions of fairy tales and myths with close readings of works ranging from Margaret Atwood to Doris Lessing to Toni Morrison. Wilson examines meanings of myths and fairy tales as well as their varying techniques, images, intertexts, and genres. Although the writers represent several different nationalities and racial, ethnic, and cultural backgrounds, they employ a type of postcolonial literature that urges readers and societies beyond colonization. Wilson argues that the use of myths and fairy tales generally convey characters' transformation from alienation and symbolic amputation to greater consciousness, community, and wholeness, and it is in and through story that characters construct a hybrid way of establishing themselves in the larger world.
