The Wiley Handbook on the Cognitive Neuroscience of Memory presents a comprehensive overview of the latest cutting edge neuroscience research being done relating to the study of human memory and cognition. Features the analysis of original data using cutting edge methods in cognitive neuroscience research. Presents a conceptually accessible discussion of human memory research. Includes contributions from authors that represent a who's who of human memory neuroscientists from the U.S. and abroad. Supplemented with a variety of excellent and accessible diagrams to enhance comprehension.

The Reformed Two Kingdom Project has generated a great deal of literature. However, this literature is often characterized by inflamed rhetoric. Further, though it is standard fare to assume that Kline was the architect of the project, in reality there has been very little scholarly examination of this point. In response, Kline's system is analyzed through the means of a dialectical discourse with three differing models within the reformed tradition: the theonomist, perspectivalist, and Dooyeweerdian schools. Through this means, the study keeps away from surface level polemics and instead directs readers to the critically important substructural level of current discussions while clarifying some of the key differences between Kline and his interlocutors. Often overlooked points of nuance are also highlighted. These points are shown to be important in that they present the potential to lessen frustration and impasse in the ongoing dialogue.

Emma Hildreth Adams of Cleveland, Ohio visited Southern California in 1884 and 1886 to and fro in Southern California. 1887 is the book edition of Mrs. Adams' travel letters originally published in a Cleveland newspaper. She writes at length of her rail trips west and stops in New Mexico and Arizona. In California, she focuses her attention on Los Angeles with visits to Downey, Anaheim, Pasadena, and San Pedro. She discusses area schools, agriculture, regional flower growing, irrigation projects, and the position of women and reports an interview with
