what are the conditions needed for our nation to bridge cultural and racial divides by writing beyond race noted cultural critic bell hooks models the constructive ways scholars activists and readers can challenge and change systems of domination in the spirit of previous classics like outlaw culture and reel to real this new collection of compelling essays interrogates contemporary cultural notions of race gender and class from the films precious and crash to recent biographies of malcolm x and henrietta lacks hooks offers provocative insights into the way race is being talked about in this post racial era this edited collection examines the ways in which the local and global are key to understanding race and racism in the intersectional context of contemporary education analysing a broad range of examples it highlights how race and racism is a relational phenomenon that interconnects local national and global contexts and ideas the current educational climate is subject to global influences and the effects of conservative hyper nationalist politics and neoliberal economic rationalising in local settings that are creating new formations of race and racism while focused predominantly on australia and southern world or settler colonial contexts the book aims to constructively contribute to broader emerging research and debates about race and education through the adoption of a relational framing it draws the australian context into the global conversation about race and racism in education in ways that challenge and test current understandings of the operation of race and racism in contemporary social and educational spaces importantly it also pushes debates about race and racism in education and research to the foreground in australia where such debates are typically dismissed or cursorily engaged the book will guide readers as they navigate issues of race in education research and practice and its chapters will serve as provocations designed to assist in critically understanding this challenging field it reaches beyond education scholarship as concerns to do with race remain intertwined with wider social justice issues such as access to housing health social economic mobility and political representation this collection explores the racial dimensions of life writing research in diverse educational spaces it includes 14 chapters with varied theoretical and methodological approaches reflecting a range of ethnic and racial heritages the goal is to inspire scholarship on how race shapes life writing inquiry fifty years before his death in 2013 nelson mandela stood before justice de wet in pretoria s palace of justice and delivered one of the most spectacular and liberating statements ever made from a dock in what came to be regarded as the trial that changed south africa mandela summed up the spirit of the liberation struggle and the moral basis for the post apartheid society in this blistering critique of apartheid and its perversion of justice mandela transforms the law into a sword and shield he invokes it while undermining it uses it while subverting it and claims it while defeating it wise and strategic mandela skilfully reimagines the courtroom as a site of visibility and hearing opening up a political space within the legal this volume returns to the rivonia courtroom to engage with mandela s masterful performance of resistance and the dramatic core of that transformative event cutting across a wide range of critical theories and discourses contributors reflect on the personal spatial temporal performative and literary dimensions of that constitutive event by redefining the spaces institutions and discourses of law contributors present a fresh perspective that re sets the margins of what can be thought and said in the courtroom despite the best intentions of teacher educators diversity awareness in teacher education typically reproduces a racial hierarchy privileging whiteness while also educating preservice teachers against this very hierarchy the phenomenon which is effortless and easily reproduced is constructed in part through student self expression peer interaction and instructional practices this inquiry follows white undergraduate students in a state university through an academic semester in order to capture autobiographical reporting at the outset asynchronous peer mediated online discussions at the mid term and concludes with personal reflections on self perceptions of growth using grounded theory this phenomenological study examines participants relationships to white privilege in order to improve instructional practices in the teacher education classroom the relationship between the private and public faces of participants is analogous to the micro level and macro level function of their words which is organized using a theoretical framework where critical pedagogy micro level and critical race theory macro level serve as interpretive lenses these lenses provide a wide view of participants experiences in the course and increases what is known about the instructional experiences in teacher education this inquiry suggests that the teacher education classroom is an ideal space to shift the focus from intellectualization to self actualization teacher educators can provide opportunities where students insights help dissolve the barrier between the real world and the classroom a sense of pedagogical wholeness that includes one s self is needed in order for preservice teachers to become antiracist educators who will provide the appropriate environment and support their future students will need postcolonial justice addresses a major issue in current postcolonial theory and beyond namely the question of how to reconcile an ethics grounded in the reciprocal acknowledgment of diversity and difference with the normative if not universal thrust that appears to energize any notion of justice the concept of postcolonial justice shared by the essays in this volume carries an unwavering commitment to difference within and beyond europe while equally rejecting radical cultural essentialisms which refuse to engage in utopian ideals of convivial exchange across a plurality of subject positions such utopian ideals can no longer claim universal validity as in the tradition of the european enlightenment instead they are bound to local frames of speaking from which they project world this collection of original essays by scholars from a diverse range of fields examines issues of race in a variety of historical and geographical settings ranging from classical greece to the contemporary americas europe and asia the authors provide an important perspective on race both in its theoretical origins and in its actual appearances while paying close attention to the ways in which the study of race itself has been carried on or ignored by various disciplines
