the ywca arrived in china as a cultural interloper in 1899 how did activist christian chinese women maintain their identity and social relevance through the tumultuous first half of the twentieth century the ywca in china explores how the young women's christian association responded to the needs of chinese women and society both before and after the 1949 revolution ushered in a communist state western secretaries originally defined the chinese ywca movement but successive generations of chinese leadership localized its western defined organizational ethos over time the y became class conscious and progressive as chinese women transformed it from a vehicle for moral and material uplift to an instrument for social action and an organizational citizen of china and after 1949 national ywca leaders supported the maoist regime because they believed the social goals of the ywca aligned with mao's revolutionary aims the ywca in china is a fascinating investigation of the lives thinking and action of women whose varied forms of christian and chinese identity were buffeted by historical events that moulded their social philosophies as the major national biracial women s organization the young women s christian association ywca provided a unique venue for women to respond to american race relations during the first half of the twentieth century in christian sisterhood race relations and the ywca 1906 46 nancy marie robertson shows how women of both races employed different understandings of christian sisterhood in their responses although the ywca was segregated at the local level african american women were able to effectively challenge white women over ywca racial policies and practices robertson argues that from 1906 through 1946 many white women in the association went from seeing segregation as compatible with christianity and democracy to regarding it as a contradiction of those values these struggles laid the groundwork for the subsequent civil rights movement her analysis relies not only on a large body of records documenting ywca women at the national and local levels but also on autobiographical accounts and personal papers from women associated with the ywca including dorothy height lugenia burns hope alice dunbar nelson abby aldrich rockefeller and lillian smith a volume in the series women in american history edited by anne firor scott susan armitage susan k cahn and deborah gray white the founding of the u s national student association nsa in september of 1947 was shaped by the immediate concerns and worldview of the gi bill generation of american students returning from a world at war to build a world at peace the more than 90 living authors of this book all of whom are of that generation tell about nsa s formation and first five years the book also provides a prologue reaching back into the 1930s and an epilogue going forward to the sixties and beyond
