the word pietism usually conjures up a host of ambivalent impressions it has seemed to me increasingly clear that many of the strengths of pietism have been swept aside by reactions against the excesses of the movement to properly assess the structures of pietism it is important to comprehend its matrix and to understand its exponents in preparing this study therefore i have sought to recapture something of the person of theodorus jacobus frelinghuysen as well as the gist of his thought something of his environment as well as the institutions of his day to achieve this i have traveled many by paths and knocked on many doors but the past has not always yielded its secrets much is lost forever hagen in westphalia frelinghuysen's birthplace is now a modern city and only in a few isolated particulars is it reminiscent of hagen in 1693 in the nearby village of schwerte however the ancestral church of his forebears remains as it was nearly three hundred years ago the gymnasium he attended in hamm was destroyed in the bombings of world war ii though the library he used during his study at lingen is still largely intact in the tiny east frisian village of loegumer voorwerk frelinghuysen's first parish one can still stand in the pulpit where he first preached his awakening gospel yet oddly enough in america where his name is most remembered most physical traces of his life have disappeared the volume results from a seminar sponsored by the foundation for intellectual history at the herzog august bibliothek wolffenbüttel in 1992 starting with the theory of regressus as displayed in its most developed form by william wallace these papers enter the vast field of the renaissance discussion on method as such in its historical and systematical context this is confined neither to the notion of method in the strict sense nor to the renaissance in its exact historical limits nor yet to the aristotelian tradition as a well defined philosophical school but requires a new scholarly approach thus besides galileo zabarella and their circles which are regarded as being crucial for the emergence of modern science in the end of the 16th century the contributors deal with the ancient and medieval origins as well as with the early modern continuity of the renaissance concepts of method and with non regressive methodologies in the various approaches of renaissance natural philosophy including the lutheran and calvinist traditions this book presents a clear and comprehensive introduction to the diverse and wide ranging ethical aspects of war and peace in a fair minded and engaging analysis nigel dower introduces the different ethical theories in traditional and contemporary debates realism just war theory and pacifism and subjects each to detailed critical scrutiny he frames these debates within a related but distinct framework of three approaches to international relations namely skeptical realism internationalism and cosmopolitanism the book also identifies and evaluates two further important perspectives militarism and pacificism whilst analyzing the advantages and disadvantages of the different outlooks dower makes a strong case for a cosmopolitan pacifist position arguing that we need to see peace in more positive terms than merely the absence of war the book uses a wide range of examples from across the world and includes discussion of nuclear weapons new wars terrorism humanitarian intervention and human security written as a textbook for students who have no prior knowledge of philosophical ethics the ethics of war and peace is designed to help students understand and see the relevance of how a professional philosopher can engage ethically with the world each chapter contains a helpful survey of its contents at the beginning and a set of questions for individual reflection or group discussion at the end this book will be essential reading for students of security studies conflict resolution peace studies philosophy and political theory and anyone interested in the ethical questions which arise from the study of war and peace we present a comparative epistemological analysis of the wisdom motifs in psalms 1 73 90 and 107 these texts were selected on the basis of their epistemological content each confronts the relationship between virtue and prosperity and their canonical placement within the psalter each begins one of the psalter s five books we explore the implications of their respective epistemological features for our understanding of the canonical structure of the psalter after developing a diagnostic method for the identification and analysis of the epistemological features within a biblical text we apply it to each of the four psalms and discuss their epistemological qualities with respect to their canonical placement in the psalter we find that an epistemic progression develops across the canonical ordering of the four psalms while the psalmists are increasingly forthright in acknowledging the moral paradox that the righteous often suffer while the wicked can prosper they engage this paradox with ever more sophisticated responses although yhwh is ultimately the source of all wisdom human beings can facilitate their acquisition of knowledge by seeking him out intentionally by questioning him directly and by observing him with a heart focused on learning if we seek to find true life we need to walk in the ways of god s kingdom we need to seek the kingdom above all else we can only walk in the manifested reality and glory of the kingdom once we walk by spirit implying surrendering first our kingdom laying down our crown and denying the self if we seek his kingdom then our kingdom our ways agendas ideas needs to be surrendered what we believe to be truth to be the right way or the correct path needs to be surrendered as we seek the true way of the lord which is the way of the kingdom jesus said he is the way truth and life meaning he is the way of the kingdom and if we seek the kingdom then we need to follow the lord jesus in spirit and truth for then we shall walk in god s order and his will we are called by jesus to walk the narrow road to deny the self to take up the cross and to love the lord above all there is no other way except in jesus for sustained life in spirit soul and body not the way of money not the way of status or power we need to know and discern the ways of the lord and to follow his path which leads to quiet rivers and green pastures in god there is hope joy and love as we follow him we follow the way to spiritual peace belonging and restoration history of animals by aristotle translated by d arcy wentworth thompson book i 1 of the parts of animals some are simple to wit all such as divide into parts uniform with themselves as flesh into flesh others are composite such as divide into parts not uniform with themselves as for instance the hand does not divide into hands nor the face into faces and of such as these some are called not parts merely but limbs or members such are those parts that while entire in themselves have within themselves other diverse parts as for instance the head foot hand the arm as a whole the chest for these are all in themselves entire parts and there are other diverse parts belonging to them all those parts that do not subdivide into parts uniform with themselves are composed of parts that do so subdivide for instance hand is composed of flesh sinews and bones of animals some resemble one another in all their parts while others have parts wherein they differ sometimes the parts are identical in form or species as for instance one man s nose or eye resembles another man s nose or eye flesh flesh and bone bone and in like manner with a horse and with all other animals which we reckon to be of one and the same species for as the whole is to the whole so each to each are the parts severally in other cases the parts are identical save only for a difference in the way of excess or defect as is the case in such animals as are of one and the same genus by genus i mean for instance bird or fish for each of these is subject to difference in respect of its genus and there are many species of fishes and of birds
