in the early 1950s when television networks did not broadcast regular programming before 11 a m radio and newspapers were the most popular and reliable ways for americans to get their morning news then sylvester pat weaver vice president of programming at nbc pitched a bold new concept to the network a two hour early morning news show that would run monday through friday starting at 7 a m by developing today weaver filled a programming void before viewers even realized there was one and revolutionized the viewing habits of millions in the today show transforming morning television cathleen m londino provides an entertaining and informative look at the first twenty five years of nbc s innovative program from 1952 through 1977 focusing on today s broadcast history the personalities instrumental to the show s success and the show s contributions to the entertainment industry this account illustrates how the evolution of today closely paralleled the development of the broadcast industry and rise of the major networks in addition to chronicling the show s history the author profiles some of the key players both behind and in front of the camera including dave garroway barbara walters tom brokaw and jane pauley the vision of morning news developed by weaver more than sixty years ago endured far beyond his wildest expectation establishing a model that would eventually be adopted not only by competing networks but also by television programmers around the globe the today show transforming morning television is a fascinating account of the unprecedented success of this influential program and will appeal to anyone interested in television history thesis m a from the year 2006 in the subject pedagogy intercultural pedagogy grade 1 university of hamburg institut fuer allgemeine erziehungswissenschaft language english abstract since the end of the second world war migratory movements have increased within europe while trans oceanic mobility has decreased almost forty years have passed since then and the question arises of how portuguese immigrants and the host community co exist in germany this is going to be the subject investigated in this paper to answer this question social psychological theories dealing with in and outgroups self regard social identity stereotypes and prejudice will be mobilised alongside certain governmental trends on immigration issues an ideological typology will be suggested and later discussed in relation to germany and its portuguese immigrants the relationship between these two ethnic groups will also be subjected to empirical research by means of a questionnaire consisting of two different scales the first was developed on the basis of work carried out first by berry and later by bourhis during the eighties and nineties in canada and comprises four different acculturation orientations specified into several items in cross cultural psychology the focus on the phenomena resulting from the contact between groups of individuals from different cultural backgrounds and the subsequent adaptations of their original culture patterns is a relative recent trend nevertheless it has been used intensely in the last two decades and several models have been suggested for the study of the acculturation strategies of both immigrants and host communities in multicultural societies the most frequent is the bi dimensional model extended by bourhis and his co workers from berry s original research which will here be applied to portuguese immigrants and their relation to the german host community the second part of the questionnaire contains an experimental scale designed to highlight some of the pragmatic manifestations of the acculturation process between these two groups what exactly happens where and how often are questions that we will try to answer through examination of the answers given by the participants a statistical analysis will lead us to the discussion of results and will hopefully help to define the acculturation tendencies of these two groups towards each other and provide some sort of framework to enable us to understand the choices made by portuguese immigrants and their host community in their co existence in germany
