abandon your treasured delusions and hit the road with one of the most important zen masters of twentieth century japan eschewing the entrapments of vanity power and money homeless kodo sawaki roshi refused to accept a permanent position as a temple abbot despite repeated offers instead he lived a traveling homeless life going from temple to temple student to student teaching and instructing and never allowing himself to stray from his chosen path he is responsible for making soto zen available to the common people outside of monasteries his teachings are short sharp and powerful always clear often funny and sometimes uncomfortably close to home they jolt us into awakening kosho uchiyama expands and explains his teacher s wisdom with his commentary trained in western philosophy he draws parallels between zen teachings and the bible descartes and pascal shohaku okumura has also added his own commentary grounding his teachers power and sagacity for the contemporary western practitioner experience the timeless practical wisdom of three generations of zen masters in black to nature pastoral return and african american culture author stefanie k dunning considers both popular and literary texts that range from beyoncé s lemonade to jesmyn ward s salvage the bones these key works restage black women in relation to nature dunning argues that depictions of protagonists who return to pastoral settings contest the violent and racist history that incentivized black disavowal of the natural world dunning offers an original theoretical paradigm for thinking through race and nature by showing that diverse constructions of nature in these texts are deployed as a means of rescrambling the teleology of the western progress narrative in a series of fascinating close readings of contemporary black texts she reveals how a range of artists evoke nature to suggest that interbeing with nature signals a call for what jared sexton calls the dream of black studies abolition black to nature thus offers nuanced readings that advance an emerging body of critical and creative work at the nexus of blackness gender and nature written in a clear approachable and multilayered style that aims to be as poignant as nature itself the volume offers a unique combination of theoretical breadth narrative beauty and broader perspective that suggests it will be a foundational text in a new critical turn towards framing nature within a cultural studies context surprisingly little has been written about how zen came to north america zen master who does that and much more author james ishmael ford a renowned zen master in two lineages traces the tradition s history in asia looking at some of its most important figures the buddha himself and the handful of indian chinese and japanese masters who gave the zen school its shape it also outlines the challenges that occurred as zen became integrated into western consciousness and the state of zen in north america today the author includes profiles of modern zen teachers and institutions including d t suzuki and alan watts and such topics as the emergence of liberal buddhism and christians jews and zen this engaging accessible book is aimed at anyone interested in this tradition but who may not know how to start most importantly it clarifies a great and ancient tradition for the contemporary seeker penetrate the nature of mind with this contemporary korean take on a classic of zen literature the message of the tang dynasty zen text in this volume seems simple to gain enlightenment stop thinking there is something you need to practice for the chinese master huangbo xiyun d 850 the mind is enlightenment itself if we can only let go of our normal way of thinking the celebrated translation of this work by john blofeld the zen teaching of huang po introduced countless readers to zen over the last sixty years huangbo s work is also a favorite of contemporary zen korean seon master subul who has revolutionized the strict monastic practice of koans and adapted it for lay meditators in korea and around the world to make swift progress in intense but informal retreats devoting themselves to enigmatic questions with their whole bodies retreatants are frustrated in their search for answers and arrive thereby at a breakthrough experience of their own buddha nature a bird in flight leaves no trace is a bracing call for the practitioner to let go and thinking and unlock the buddha within
